Shadda: the doubled letter

The shadda looks like a small “w”. It means the letter is written once but said twice: first with no vowel, then with the vowel.

The shadda looks like a small “w”. It means the letter is written once but said twice: first with no vowel, then with the vowel.

Learn

Next lesson

See also

Sukun: the letter with no vowel
Previous

Test: vowels and marks (20 questions)

The Arabic alphabet: all 28 letters

Surah Al-Ikhlas: Arabic text and audio